INVENTOR'S LEAGUE

Reorganization on National Scope Plans Middleman Elimination. Reoganization of the old Inventor's League, of Washington, on a nation-wide scale, with the intention of comwide scale, with the intention of compelling the government to deal directly with inventors when granting a patent instead of through patent attorneys, was begun at a meeting of former members of the league held at 421 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

A country-wide campaign for 25,000 members will be started immediately among the 300,000 inventors in the United States, the promoters of the revived association say.

Doing away with the patent attorney, the middleman of the patent world, is the avowed principle of the organization. Washington inventors organization. Washington inventors present said that the league would approve of a method by which an inventor could deal directly with the government in regard to his patent, thus cutting out the attorney fee.

The leaders in the reconstructed league promise that the campaign against the patent attorneys will be to the finish. They claim that they have sufficient funds and backing to have sufficient funds and backing to last indefinitely in any legal battle. The old Inventor's League had a brief but spectacular career in Wash-ington, six years ago. With offices in the Munsey Building, the organi-zation fought a losing game with the attorneys and the government. A defaulting officer in the society caused some of the members to lose interest some of the members to lose interest in the organization and it was aban

Reorganization.

The angle over the appointment of general officers for the new national army will probably not be decided until the army is raised and organized. No evidence could be obtained yester-day to show that Gen. Pershing had actually recommended that only officers about 45 years of age should be made brigadiers. It was learned defi-nitely, however, that the appointment of these brigadiers is closely connect-ed with the general plan for reorganizing our whole tactical system in ac-cordance with the continental prac-tice of using smaller divisions. The demand for younger men to command the brigades is based on

If, as is generally expected, our army is split into smaller divisions, many of the older, but highly expert officers, now objected to as brigadiers, will be moved up to division commands, which they can undoubtedly fill with ability.

★ THREE MILLION FRENCHMEN FACE KAISER'S ARMY ON WESTERN FRONT

Vast Resources of Republic Detailed in Letter from M. Tardieu to Secretary of War Baker.

War Baker.

France, the nation that suffered the brunt of the war at the beginning, has three million men in the battle zone today. This is one million more than rushed to the colors when the Teuton war machine surged on toward Belgium. She can maintain this number effectively for several years to come. She has vast reserves. And while doing this for herself the remarkable nation has completely re-equipped and rearmed the Belgian, Serbian and Greek armies. She has given more than 800 heavy guns to her other allied nations.

War Work of France.

Complete exposition of this work of France was given to Secretary of War Baker by M. Andre Tardieu, High Commissioner of the French Republic, yesterday. Mr. Tardieu presents a detailed story of what France has done. He shows his

M. Tardieu's letter to Secretary "We are certain, with the resources of our metropolitan and colonial depots, to be able to maintain that number up to its present level for a long time to come. Our strength in men, by reason of a better command, and of better methods of instruction, has shown, since the beginning of the war, constantly decreasing definitive casualties (billed, missing and

League Target Range Under Poli's Theater

Increased activity in target practice, by members of various companies forming the Home Defense League Rifics, has been a feature for the past week. In consequence the indoor small-bore range under the Poli Theater is the scene of almost continuous firium during the almost continuous firing during the open hours for practice there.

The number of these guns was constantly increased; it is adequate to our needs. As for heavy artillery, we had in August 1914, 300 guns grouped in regiments. In June 1917 we had 6,000 of them mostly modern. Our output of munitions was arranged in August 1914 for 13,000 shots of "755" a day. It is now arranged for 250,000 shots of "755" and 100,000 shots of heavy guns.
